

Working Together to STOP Cervical Cancer

22-23 January 2007, Renaissance Hotel,
Brussels

7 December 2006

Dear Colleague

The European Cervical Cancer Association (ECCA) is delighted to invite you to the 'Working Together to STOP Cervical Cancer' workshop that will be held at the Renaissance Hotel in Brussels from 10 am on Monday 22 January to 12 noon on 23 January. There is no registration fee for the workshop although participants are expected to cover their own travel and accommodation costs. If this is an issue, please contact the ECCA office as we have access to limited funds that could be used for this purpose and we may be able to help.

There are numerous organisations across Europe that are involved in different aspects of cervical cancer prevention and while many of these groups work effectively at a national level, there is a greater need for cross-discipline co-ordination at a European level. Greater co-operation between these different groups would:

- help European politicians or commission officials to see a clear path forward so the resources available through these institutions can be utilised more effectively
- ensure that all European stakeholders are adequately represented in the debate that is now taking place in Brussels

In recognition of this, the ECCA is holding a workshop for all organisations involved in the prevention of cervical cancer in Europe to identify areas of common interest and develop a co-ordinated action plan to move the cervical cancer agenda forward at a European level. After the workshop, all attendees are also invited to the official launch of the European Cervical Cancer Prevention Week in the European Parliament from 14.00 to 16.00 on 23 January 2007.

We sincerely hope that you will be able to attend this workshop and look forward to receiving your registration form before Wednesday 20 December 2006.

Yours sincerely

Mel Read
President, ECCA

Philip Davies
Director General
